

THE HERALD.

JOHN F. BARRETT, EDITOR.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 14, 1885.

MAY the Lays and Lemurs be ever kind to you, Eva Mackay.

RUSSELL HANCOCK, only son of General W. S. Hancock, died last week. His remains were interred at St. Louis.

OHIO COUNTY and the Eighth Senatorial district must send Democratic members to the next General Assembly.

THE Muhlenberg Echo came to us last week looking as bright and clear as a spring morning. It was printed on its new power press.

MR. VANDERBILT'S generous and noble offer to Mrs. Grant will attract to him in no small degree the good will of the nation.

PRESIDENT-ELECT CLEVELAND resigned the office of Governor of New York on the 5th inst., in the following words: "I hereby resign the office of Governor of the State of New York."

We have received the first number of the Union semi-weekly Local, published at Uniontown by R. M. Wilson. We admire the pluck and energy of our contemporary and wish him great success.

THE semi-weekly Messenger came out with the beginning of the new year in tri-weekly form. We expect to see it in daily form by the end of the year. Owensboro should feel proud of her papers.

GENERAL GRANT'S wealthy New York friends have raised an aid fund for him. The hero deserves the support and sympathy of the whole country in these his dark hours of misfortune.

We have received a communication from Hon. W. D. Coleman, in reply to the communication of "A Miner" which appeared last week, but too late to insert this week. It will appear next week. Read it when you get it.

THE Breckenridge News makes us smile when, in speaking of Jack Gross's candidacy for the United States Marshalship, it says: "For a wonder—and a very gratifying wonder it is—this is literally a case of office seeking the man."

THE Deputy Mayor of Louisville, Joseph Ekins, who gained an enviable reputation for honesty and brightness while a reporter for the newspapers, will bear watching now. It is stated that he will petition the city council to reduce his salary at once.

We had a call from Hon. W. D. Coleman Monday. He will reply next week to the communication of "A Miner," which appeared in our last issue. We learn from him that he had 22 local acts and 4 general acts passed through the last session, all of which went through both branches of the Legislature without amendment—save one single word in one of the general acts. This indicates that his acts were carefully and intelligently prepared.

THE Courier-Journal's Washington correspondent recently said: "The retirement of Mr. Cleveland as Governor of New York has revived Cabinet speculations here. Your correspondent occupied his time to-day in conversing with the leading Democrats here in regard to this most important question. He heard many names mentioned for Cabinet positions, but the preponderance of opinion among the best-advised Democrats was that the Cabinet of President-elect Cleveland would be constructed as follows: Secretary of State, Hon. Thomas Francis Bayard, of Delaware; Secretary of the Treasury, Hon. Wm. C. Whitney, of New York; Secretary of the Interior, Hon. Wm. F. Vilas, of Wisconsin; Secretary of War, Hon. J. E. McDonald, of Indiana; Secretary of the Navy, Gen. Geo. B. McClellan, of New Jersey; Postmaster General, Hon. Frank Jonas, of Louisiana; Attorney General, Hon. A. H. Garland, of Arkansas."

A Cashier Short.

Serugham, teller and assistant cashier of the Lexington City National Bank, is short $37,000. Upon leaving for Canada, last week, he left the following note:

"I am short in my accounts $37,000, but haven't got the money. I am off for Canada, and you needn't look for me nor the money."

It is now thought that his shortness will probably reach $50,000.

STATE NEWS.

The old Davis homestead, near Fairview, where Jefferson Davis was born, is to be sold at Elkton, Ky.

C. B. Simmons, Treasurer of the L. & N. Railroad, at Louisville, has defaulted to the amount of $35,000. He left for Canada, on the 25th ultimo.

The North American Guarantee Company is his surety.

A passenger coach on the east-bound train of the C. O. & S. W. Railroad, burned one night last week just before reaching Louisville, caused the explosion of a lamp. A brother of C. P. Huntington was seriously burned.

The Echo says the hitch in the tobacco trade has made money matters very stringent in that part of the moral vineyard.

The Danville Tribune, the latest Republican paper in the State, has suspended.

One of the social events of the season, says the Echo, was the marriage of Mr. W. A. Wickliffe and Miss Modie Reynolds, which occurred Thursday, January 1st, 1885, at the C. P. Church. The beautiful and impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. E. W. Hall. The church was filled with the friends of the young couple, who had assembled to witness their marriage. The organist, Miss Annie Allison, announced the arrival of the bridal party by commencing "Golden Dream March," which was rendered with the skill of a practiced hand. Immediately after the ceremony the happy pair left for their tour through the South.

The Park City Times gives an account of a tragedy at Rich Pond, in which an ax and a pistol were used, resulting in a dead negro.

Mayor-elect P. Booker Reed, of Louisville, was inaugurated last week and set the city going. He appointed John H. Whalen Chief of Police, and Joseph J. Ekins Mayor's Clerk.

A little more than a year ago, says the Bowling Green Gazette, Moses Hess put a number of German Carp obtained from the Kentucky fish commission, into a pond on his farm. On Friday one of these fish were found frozen stiff in a shallow portion of the pond, which was eighteen inches in length and weighed a little more than four pounds.

There were sixty-four business failures in Louisville during the year 1884. Liabilities, $2,475,440; assets, $537,926.

Mrs. Henry Wood, of Hopkinsville, dropped dead from heart disease while engaged about her household duties, recently.

David Bradley was accidentally shot and killed in Christian county by Oscar Hunberry. They were out hunting.

A duel with knives was fought on top of the caboose of a flying freight train on the Lexington division of the L. & N. Railroad on the night of the 3rd inst., between the conductor and a brakeman. Both men were pretty badly used up, but neither was killed. They are in Louisville under treatment of physicians.

A Prophecy.

Come, now! I make a prophecy. The land is full of prophets, and I have as much right as any of them to prophesy. We are not far off from the grand old prosperity this country has ever seen. Mechanics will receive larger wages, capitalists will receive larger dividends and the factories that are now closed will have to run day and night to meet the demand, and your store-houses will be tired of waiting for their turn to come, and amid the misunderstandings of bargain-makers the attorneys will all be needed to interpret the legalities, and the overworked business men will need more medical attendance, and the orders of God will be thronged with men and women anxious to consecrate their gains to Christian purposes. You prophesy a midnight. I prophesy a midnoon. You pitch your tent toward national opulence. Do you want my reason for this prophecy? God's evident determination to shower this land with prosperity. Five years of unexampled harvest and of unheard-of amity. Northern Pacific railroad apocalyptic in one direction, New Orleans exhibition apocalyptic in the other direction. When I saw week before last, at the opening of the World's exhibition at New Orleans, a dark-skinned Mexican flutist throw 15,000 people into ecstasy and transport, I said to myself, he is only playing in front of the advancing hosts of Southern republics and empires which are to re-enforce us in a march of commercial prosperity such as most optimistic capitalists never get a glimpse of in most excited madman's night dream. While we sympathize with the present hardship, we prophesy the coming rescue.—Atlanta.

Ohio County. Ohio is an old county, the thirty-fifth in the order of formation, having been formed out of part of Hardin county in 1798, and she was named after that grand and magnificent river, upon whose Southern banks the beautiful little city of Owensboro lifts her many spires to kiss the first blush of morn. With an average soil, as compared with other Green river counties, with an abundance of heavy timber of superior quality; with iron ore in fair quantity; with inexhaustible coal fields; then with Green river forming her southwestern boundary for fifty miles and with Rough Creek, which is soon to be made navigable, running through the central part of the county from east to west, and the C. O. & S. W. R. R., doing the same, all forming outlets through which all our surplus products of all kinds may find a ready market, where competition would prove an inducement to greater exertion on account of the superior quality of ours—with all these advantages, I repeat, there is no reason why this county should not at once come to the front, instead of lagging behind, as she has been doing for so many years. If these statements be true, is there any egotism in saying that Ohio county offers almost as great an inducement for immigration as any other section of our whole country? With land cheap; with water pure and cool, gushing in thousands of places from the hillsides, with a genial, hospitable people to live among and with a salubrious climate, with all these to strangers seeking homes, I am sure they will soon come among us.

In speaking of Ohio county, I might add that the entire county of Daviess was taken from her in 1815, parts of Butler and Grayson in 1820, McLean in 1824, yes, and Hancock in 1829. So Ohio county can boast of several daughters, some of rare fascinations and charms, and none exceedingly homely. But enough on this subject—I did intend to say something about Hartford, but must defer it.—G. C. W. in Owensboro Inquirer.

Beaver Dam Notes.

Jan. 12, 1885.

Perhaps the most consequential men that has been seen in Beaver Dam lately was Dr. George F. Mitchell on yesterday morning. His wife presented him with a brand-new daughter and he was around inviting everybody to come and see his daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. DeGernet are visiting their daughter Mrs. J. J. Mitchell.

Mr. George DeGernet and Mr. Brown visiting their brother-in-law Dr. J. J. Mitchell during the holidays.

Mr. J. M. Rogers will deliver a lecture at Beaver Dam church Saturday night next on temperance, which will comprise his experience for twenty years in the chains of the monster.

Mr. J. H. Barnett has moved to the Berry house in town.

Mr. George W. Sowders has accepted a position in the store of Messrs. Barnard & McKinney.

A new drug store has been started here under the proprietorship of Messrs. Oscar Stevens and Kelly Williams.

Tobacco is coming in rapidly, and trade is fair.

The old year made its departure quietly, and the new came in with no unusual demonstrations. Infact the holidays were unusually quiet. The small boy with his toy pistol and tin horn was not so numerous as usual. Fire crackers and such things were not much in demand though fire water did not go off a begging. A few livelies were the result but Judge Yewell took them under his consideration.

RURAL.

SUGGS SQUELCHED.

CURDSVILLE, KY., Dec. 29th, 1884.

I have been thinking of writing you for some time in regard to the HERALD. Now as I have just returned from a trip through Ohio and Muhlenberg counties, I have a few of the readers of the HERALD to bear me witness of what I say. It is in regard to the Rockport correspondent, every one to whom I spoke concerning his writing agreed with me that he is a dandy. When we get the HERALD we look for the news in and around our old home, and find instead a lot of tomfoolery.

We like to read the HERALD and are very much disappointed in our home news, and would rather have that pop-eyed fool's part left blank.

Mr. J. Reid, of Nelson, Ky., was with me in Ohio county recently, and heard the people express their disgust at this Rockport idiot's communications. He will cut off some of your subscribers if you don't put a stop to it.

When we want Shakespeare we can go to the book for it instead of that big-headed up-start at Rockport.

I am yours, most respectfully &c.,

DISGUSTED.

Rosine Rumbles.

Editor Herald:

Inasmuch as I have not seen any communication from this place, and believing that some of your many readers would like to hear from this part of the country, I will try to give you a few items if you will allow me space in your valuable and newsy paper.

On Friday night, the 9th inst., Prof. W. B. Hayward, at the instance of the Principal of our school, D. M. Hocker, delivered a very entertaining and instructive lecture before quite a large and attentive audience. The students and patrons of friends of Rosine Public School assembled in the Rosine school-house by seven o'clock, at which hour Professor began and held his audience spell-bound for one and three-fourths hours. Having been thus regarded, we would most respectfully request Prof. Hayward to favor us with another lecture soon.

Dr. N. J. Rains, L. T. Cox and S. J. Wedding have been delivering a series of lectures before the students of Rosine school. Subject: Anatomy, Physiology and Hygiene. Their lectures have been highly instructive and well attended. Dr. N. J. Rains will deliver his next lecture on Friday night, the 16th inst. Subject, Absorption. We hope the citizens of Rosine and vicinity will give the doctor a good audience as he is well worth listening to.

Robert Ragland, eldest son of M. S. Ragland, is quite sick with typhoid fever. Dr. S. J. Wedding attending physician. On last Thursday Dr. J. E. Pendleton was called in to see Robert. On Friday morning Dr. Pendleton said Robert was somewhat better.

Miss Ella Whittinghill is quite sick. Mrs. G. B. Vannort is quite sick. For want of time, I must close.

Success to the HERALD.

AMICUS.

Plaint From Louisville.

631 FOURTH AVENUE, Dec. 17, 1884.

DEAR SIR:—What was to have been an election was a most fraudulent sale on the 2nd of this month. I was in the McGee movement from the time he first announced himself as a candidate and I never saw people come to any cause as rapidly and in such numbers as they did to that, beginning the Thursday week prior to the election. Before that time it was hard work, but from that day on it was the easiest thing I ever did to win votes for McGee.

The surroundings of Reed were so very objectionable as well as their method of obtaining power by catering to the lowest elements, I looked for a majority of from 3,000 to 5,000 for McGee.

The opposition were as conscious of our strength as we were of their weakness, and got up a "big" mass-meeting, to which, I am sorry to say, some of our leading citizens lent their names, for private reasons, I presume. At first they ignored McGee's candidacy wholly, said he was a "poor man, the son of a mechanic," &c., and could never be elected. They thought to blow him out like a candle, but he proved to be a "Prairie Patch," the stronger the gale the bigger the flame; so they saw at once the necessity of not only earnest work, but fraud at the polls. They, it seems, resolved upon seizing the polls and intimidating voters, defying registration &c., to not elect their man, but to put him in the Mayor's office.

Scene at one poll to illustrate, our County Clerk a creature of the said rig, a reporter of the Times, who it is said is to be Mayor's clerk, and Assistant Chief of our Fire Department openly buying votes. After officers of poll become too drunk to act, said assistant chief takes charge of poll, while one member of fire department under him brings in the voters. Another, a colored man who was bringing in McGee voters by strings like "Munchausen's ducks," was approached by one of the ring's athletes and knoeked down.

The real trouble is Colonel, that of getting the substantial citizens interested, and have to rely upon men who are "for sale" too often. We had the victory for the people (in the election of McGee), but they refused to grasp it. I told Reed's brother such methods as were used at our last election would be as bad for him eventually as for any other citizen. He agreed with me but claimed ignorance of it. I told him they were general, but few precepts excepted. I told McGee he should contest the election upon the following grounds, viz:

1st. Officers of polls, almost all Reed men.

2d. Polls near the large factories closed between 12 and 1 P. M., to exclude votes of workmen during dinner hours, knowing the workmen to be for McGee.

3d. McGee openly and freely used by city and county officials.

4th. Drunkenness of officers of polls.

5th. Assistant Chief of Fire Department in charge of polls while other firemen brought in voters.

6th. Registrars laws set at defiance.

7th. Minors allowed to vote provided they voted for Reed.

8th. Violence to McGee's athletic runners.

9th. Read not in the city 12 months, so therefore not eligible even under the amended charter, which was amended by Reed.

10th. McGee votes recorded for Reed and acknowledged by poll clerk, and changed 12 different times at one precinct, and it is presumed to have been done all the time when polls were not watched by McGee's friends.

I am told McGee did not leave Jefferson county till the 12th of January last. If this be so he is not eligible. The people will ultimately arouse to their duty and the longer they defer it, the more difficult the job will be. The influence of said ring now extends up to the Court of Appeals, and over the Governor's chair I believe, for it is claimed Knott never received his nomination fairly, and you well know what a disturbance was raised at the E. Town convention where Lewis was finally nominated. Their plan seems to be to raise such a disturbance that no business can be done till their man is finally nominated. I regard them as a very disorderly gang that should very promptly be sat down upon.

I think the reason they stopped Reed's votes was they did not know how they were marking them in other parts of the city and feared they might get beyond the explanation due you as to why McGee got only 25 per cent. of the vote cast, and should have written earlier, but have been so busy since.

Rings always seek, obtain and perpetuate their power by persecuting the free expression of the voice of the people at the polls.

I thank you for your kindness to McGee at the start of the canvass, and hope he may be able to repay you at some future day.

Truly your friend,

BENJ. L. ALFORD.

Editor Herald:

The meeting at No. One church, in charge of Rev. R. W. Neal, which has been in progress for several days, is still flourishing. Although the weather has been very inclement, and therefore many of the members of the church could not attend, yet it pleased the good Lord to bless His truth to the edification of those who did attend, and the awakening of many of the unconverted.

Neal is at present being assisted by Bro. Jenkins, who, by his wise counsels and timely advice, has fastened himself, if possible, more permanently in the affection of his old hearers, and commanded the attention and respect of those who have previously known him. On account of the rainy weather we are now having, the meeting will probably be closed before this appears in print. Bro. Neal began the meeting here under very unfavorable circumstances. The church was undergoing a spiritual death, with some individual troubles existing amongst her members, which have been removed, while brotherly love now seems to prevail throughout the church.

Rev. A. B. Smith will begin a protracted meeting at Cool Spring church on the next second Sunday, assisted by Bro. Neal. Bro. Smith is an able minister and is rather in advance of his years as preacher of the gospel, and an earnest christian worker. May his meeting be beneficial, and joy and harmony prevail, is the wish of the writer.

J. H. Ferguson, formerly of this place, but now of Kansas, is back to this country on a visit. We extend to him a hearty welcome.

I was in error in regard to Prof. Henry Barrow teaching at the Deavenport school house. He applied for the school but some one else was ahead of him. I regret exceedingly that Prof. Barrow did not get a school in our midst.

J. B. Wilson's school will close next week. Several premiums will be given to his scholars on the last day. He will attend school at South Carrollton during the spring session. Prof. Wilson has won the esteem of his entire district. May sunshine brighten your path way up to the tower of fame.

Miss Jane Chinn, one of our most beautiful girls, visited her sister at Prentice last week.

Haynesville Happenings.

January 10th, 1885.

Editor Herald:

As Christmas is over and the tide of holiday hilarity has receded, I avail myself of the present to jot you the items as they have occurred around us since my last.

On Wednesday eve of the 24th ult., a large and joyful audience congregated at the C. P. church to witness the unloading of a bountiful Christmas tree by Old Santa, which had been erected by Prof. G. P. Kelly, in honor of his school, which he has been teaching here for the past five months.

We were also gratified by hearing a voluminous outpouring of soul and sentiment by Prof. K. on "The Duties of Man." It was commended in the highest terms by all who heard it. Everybody was well pleased, especially did we enjoy the delight manifested by the little ones. Prof. K. leaves soon for a Normal College to increase his capacity in the profession he has adopted. His school has been taught to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

Misses Ettie and Nonie Willis, who have been attending Slaughterville Institute, spent the holidays at home, in company with the Misses Nelson, of the same place.

Misses Mattie and Allie Hale and Hattie Mattingly, accompanied by Messrs. Owen, Ware and Haynes, of Whitesville, spent Christmas with us. Also Misses Mollie Day and Sue May, from the same place, stopped with us on the 25th.

Miss Mollie Crow, who has been in Etown for the last two years, is now a welcome visitor to her old home.

Messrs. Stinnett & May, who have been our merchants here for the last four years, have sold their stock of goods to Mr. J. H. Black, who will take possession of same in a few months. Mr. May leaves for Cincinnati as soon as his business here will permit. Mr. Black is an enterprising young man, of good business habits, and I predict for him a successful future. He has sold his farm and is now erecting a neat residence on Mulberry street, which will be considerable improvement in that part of the village.

Farmers are now trying to dispose of their tobacco.

Roads are nearly impassable. Oh! for a time when we can navigate without being so covered in mud.

More again.

CHALEAC.

Rockport.

January 12, 1885.

Editor Herald:

Mr. W. A. Bentley has addressed a most interesting and important war reminiscence to some of the Eastern newspapers. Who chose Gettysburg for one of the greatest and most decisive conflicts of the world has been a question of long and bitter controversy.

When Gen. Reynolds fell, Gen. Howard, who took command, was in an observatory in the city scanning the battle field. Mr. Bentley happened to be in the observatory at the time Reynolds' death was reported to Howard. Gen. Howard ordered that Cemetery Hill be fortified at once as the key to the Federal position. Upon the meaneast trifles the destinies of nations often seem to hang. It was only an accident that Howard found that observatory, the merest accident that Reynolds fell at that perhaps critical moment, hence an accident that the key to a new position was fortified at a time which turned an approaching terrible defeat into one of the grandest battles ever fought on the globe.

Mr. Ab Chapman told me he helped slaughter a porker of Rev. A. B. Smith's that was so large it was not weighed. It was of the Jersey Red breed. It measured 6 feet 5 inches around the body just behind the forelegs, 7 feet from nose to tail, and 2 feet 5 inches from the tip of one ear to the tip of the other. Mr. Chapman thinks it would have weighed 600 pounds.

Mr. Thomas Torrence, of Monmouth, Ill., is visiting his mother who is very sick at Mr. Richard Sueddon's.

All point, the only point, to "A Miner's" letter, which appeared in your last issue, depend solely upon that "discrepancy" which he alludes to. Mr. Coleman is the first, the only member, who ever made the miner's interest a specialty in the Kentucky Legislature. That he was zealous, untiring and effective his record with its results abundantly proves. He failed only where it was impossible to succeed. It was high time this honorable and important element of Kentucky industry had a champion; for gradually the meshes of class legislation, facilitated by money and jobbery, were falling like the spider's web around its victim, binding it down to mean subsistence and slavery. My life-long and respectful intimacy with the mining class demonstrates that they have been too content to leave legislation alone, trusting in the patriotism of our officials to guard their interests, and win honest bread down among the dusky diamonds. And what is more, whatever be their faults, ingratitude is not in the catalogue. Political purposes are distorting the sense of the debt we owe Mr. Coleman and which we will some day pay. But I repeat, until that "discrepancy" is established in the face of reliable proof to the contrary, "A Miner's" letter will not only be pointless, but will be open to the suspicion that it may be a mask behind which traced an itching palm playing upon a tender chord to rear ambition on another's ruin. But there shall be no quarrel between us. I'm for your man cheerfully, heartily when he is nominated by my party.

Prayerfully,

SEGGES.

Editor Herald:

Christmas, with all there was in it, came around at the usual time, and remained about the usual time, then departed to return again at its usual time, and very soon after its departure the New Year came upon us, and now our people are pursuing the even tenor of their way.

The amusements during the holidays consisted of a Christmas tree on Thursday night, well and beautifully arranged and filled to overflowing with nice, and some valuable presents; then a New Year's tree, which, though gotten up on short notice, was a tolerable success. W. T. Roark personated Santa Claus in the first instance and Andy Williams in the next. Very pleasant social entertainments were enjoyed by the young people at Mr. Ross' and John K. Smith's, and since then at Sam Shull's.

Business with our merchants has been fairly good.

A greater number of persons have finished stripping and delivering tobacco than has ever been known to be the case so early in the season before, which, viewed from several standpoints, was a very lucky thing.

Rev. Mr. Weaver preached to a respectable audience at the church in this place Friday night of last week. He has promised to preach here Friday night before the second Sunday in each month.

Several of the schools in this part of the county will close in a week or two from now.

Uncle Ike Ashby, of near Jamesport, Mo., who has been spending the last month among friends here, will start for his home to-day or to-morrow. Uncle Ike has many warm friends in this county who regret to see him leave.

Mr. Rhoades, who bought the Ike Ashby farm near here, has moved to the same. We welcome Mr. Rhoades in our midst and wish him success.

E. R. Ashby has finished hauling logs and will begin rafting in a short time. He has about five hundred cut and hauled.

Mrs. Ann Miller, widow of the late John L. Miller, of McHenry, has taken up her abode with her son-in-law, J. W. Tanner, near this place.

Mrs. Sallie A. Ross, with her small force of small boys, raised a number one crop of corn and hay and nearly three thousand pounds of tobacco last year, and has bought a brand new set of harness and a new Blount wagon.

E. W. W. L. Rowe spent nearly all last week in Hartford attending Court of Claims.

Alfred Ashby is breaking corn ground.

S. W. Jones went on a business trip to his store in Butler county last week. Born to the wife of Allen Leisure, a son, on the 14th inst. To the wife of E. M. Miller, a son, on the 5th inst. S.

Editor Herald:

After a long silence I come to the surface again.

News scarce.

Health good, with few exceptions. Mrs. J. W. Magan is still in a precarious condition.

Old Uncle Billy Thomas is still tramping through this neighborhood with his toes frost-bitten. G. L. Johnston, former head last Sunday by the roadside, where he had fallen, and took him in, and now the old man is too feeble to leave, so it seems that Johnston will be compelled to keep him, as every appeal to his kindred is unheeded.

Mr. Frank Myers has erected a new business house here, and we are to have a new post-office here, I understand.

School orders are still taken at Anderson's Bazaar. The patronage to this house from the teachers of the county has been immense.

The weather during the latter part of last week reminded one of Spring. It is seldom that we have such weather in January.

Itch and Scratches of every kind Cured in 30 Minutes by Woodford's Sanitary Lotion. Use no other. This never fails. Sold by Z. W. Griffin & Bro., Hartford, Ky.

Miss Pauline Hubbard gave a delightful party to her companions last week, in commemoration of her 12th birthday. The yonkers and pleasures and chased the glowing hours with nimble feet, and the cheer of savory sweetmeats abounded. Music was provided by Phillips.

A protracted meeting has been in progress at Slaty Creek church for two weeks past, under the management of Revs. R. Jenkins, of Warren county, and Dr. Neal, of Butler county. At last advice there had been some 35 conversions, and a religious fervor pervading the whole community. Quite a number were baptised yesterday.

Thos. L. Baird, living about three miles north of Hartford, sold his crop of tobacco to R. H. Arkenberg & Co., at Livermore, at $9 all round. His crop brought him $488.70. This is the highest price paid so far, for tobacco this season. Mr. Baird is an industrious, wide-awake young farmer, and will ere long make his mark as a farmer and stock-raiser.

Messrs. E. L. Sullenger, Jerry Williams and Clarence Hardwick, as announced last week, went to Evansville and purchased the steamer Rosa Belle. The boat arrived Monday evening heavily loaded with freight for Hartford merchants. The boat was bought expressly for the Rough river trade and will run in the name of E. L. Sullenger & Co. Thos. Settlements is engaged as pilot. The Rosa Belle will leave to-day for Evansville with a load of tobacco belonging to James M. and John L. Barnett.

Dr. J. Bradford: Dear Sir—I have taken several bottles of your Female Regulator for falling of the womb and other diseases combined, of sixteen years standing, and I really believe I am cured entirely, for which please accept my heartfelt thanks and most profound gratitude. I know your medicine saved my life, so you see I cannot speak too highly in its favor. I have recommended it to several of my friends who are suffering as I was.

Yours very respectfully,
MRS. W. E. STERBINS.

Oh! Those good dinners at the Commercial.

FOR SALE—Two good jacks. Apply to L. B. Bean, Hartford, Ky. 24

When you come to court next Monday, go to the Commercial Hotel to get your dinner.

Dr. S. L. Berry left his notes and books of accounts with J. E. Fogle. Go pay and save costs.

Apologies of the article headed "The Rosa Belle" the devil wants to know what's become of Brother B.

For ten or twelve years I have been severely afflicted with Catarrh. Never before found such decided relief as from Ely's Cream Balm. I consider myself cured.—J. W. BEFFINGTON, Mechanicsville, N. Y. (Price 50 cents.)

The Rosa Belle.

Arrived here Monday afternoon from Evansville laden gunwales to the water with flour, meal, bran and ship-stuffs. The time made on Rough Creek was pretty fair for the first trip—7 miles an hour. A company of Hartford gentlemen have purchased the boat and will run it from here to Livermore as long as the stage of water is sufficient. It will be a great convenience to the merchants and tobacco men, and a remedy against muddy roads and intolerable railroad extortion.

Sister Cox feels especially happy at the cargo of ship-stuffs. All through the night her amiable flow of gratitude can be heard resounding in the hollow distance, betokening distended adders, bountiful dairies and demulcent drink to the lac-yearning children of Adam.

Company Shops.

Mr. M. M. Shoffner, Postmaster and Justice of the Peace, Company Shops, Almarco Co., N. C., writes, he has used St. Jacobs Oil for rheumatism, cuts, swollen ankles and knees, pains in the back and sore-throat. One or two applications in each case has always cured, and he believes the Great German Remedy is the best in the world. "As long as I can get it," he adds, "I never intend to be without it."

A Narrow Escape.

The stave sail in Wymond's steam stave saw mill, near Prot. W. B. Hayward's, broke last Saturday morning, the pieces flying in every direction, fortunately no one was badly hurt. One man had a hole cut in his ear. It was almost a miracle that some one was not killed or badly hurt, as a large number of men were engaged in the mill at the time.

A Card of Thanks.

I take this method of expressing my hearty and sincere thanks to the ladies, and good people of Beaver Dam and vicinity, for a box filled with "New Year's" presents, containing many valuable and useful articles. It was quite a surprise, and you may imagine how eagerly it was looked over as piece after piece was laid out and appropriated to the different members of the family. I shall ever hold in grateful remembrance the fair donors, and of my dear friends who were in any way connected with this highly appreciated gift. For which please to accept the heartfelt thanks, and best wishes of your pastor, D. J. K. MADDOX.

Extray Notice.

To permit yourself and family to "Suffer!" with sickness when it can be prevented and cured so easily with Hop Bitters!!!

Having experienced a great deal of "suffering" from indigestion, so much so that I came near losing my life! My trouble always came after eating my food.

However light And digestible, For two or three hours at a time I had to go through the most excruciating pains, and the only way I ever got relief was by throwing up all my stomach contents. No one can conceive the pains that I had to go through, until I met!

I was taken so that for three weeks I lay in bed and could eat nothing. My sufferings were so that I called two doctors to give me something that would stop the pain; their efforts were no good to me. At last I heard a good deal about your Hop Bitters!

And determined to try them. Got a bottle—in four hours I took the contents of one! Next day I was out of bed, and have not seen a Sick Hour.

From the same cause since, I have recommended it to hundreds of others. You have no such advocate as I am.—Geo. Kendall, Albion, Boston, Mass.

Columbus, Tennessee, Texas, April 21, '85. Dear Doctor: I have tried your Hop Bitters, and find they are good for my complaint. The best medicine I ever used in my family. H. TALENER.

*Some genuine without a bunch of green Hop on the white label. Shun all the poisonous stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

Obituary.

Departed this life, January 8th, 1885, Leslie B. Felix, eldest son of F. M. and Mary A. Felix, in the 18th year of his age.

In chronicling the above sad announcement, I cannot forbear to add that tribute to the memory of the dear, dead youth, which his many noble qualities of heart and mind commanded Leslie Felix in all the generous impulses and manly qualities, which Kentuckians admire, was indeed an exemplar to the youth of his community.

Brave, yet tender; manly, but modest; aspiring, but nursing in secret the rising hopes of his boyhood; nature; he wrought on and hoped ever; the one all-absorbing thought of his existence for the time seeming to be how he could best make home comfortable and happy, and how best lighten the burdens of his invalid father and loving and adored mother. Of all Leslie's many virtues, and they were numerous and conspicuous, the brightest and now the most precious in the recollection of his stricken parents and dejected sister, was his filial affection subordinate only to the tender love he entertained for his sister Lizzie.

In Leslie's death is verified in a striking manner the truth of the oft-repeated assertion that "Death loves a shining mark." The death of this noble boy has thrown his neighborhood into tears, and fraught with a heavy sorrow the hearts of a lately happy family, to all of whom we tender our sincere and heart-felt sympathy, for we know how irreparable is their loss.

Hoping that his soul is enjoying that repose which his virtues deserved, we can only add: Peace to his ashes.

The Washington Monument.

Thirty-six years ago the foundations of the Washington Monument were laid on the bank of the Potomac River, and a few days ago the structure was completed. On the 22d of next February—the 133d anniversary of Washington's birth—this monument is to be dedicated with appropriate ceremonies. It may interest our readers to know that this great shaft of stone and marble is now the highest structure in the world—555 feet. The great Pyramid of Egypt is 480 feet; the tower of the Cathedral at Strasburg, 468 feet; the spire at Landshut, Germany, 465 feet; the dome of St. Peter's Cathedral, at Rome, 456 feet; the pyramid of Cephren, 454 feet; and St. Stephen's, at Vienna, 441 feet. The monument stands on an open space, squares away from any building. There is nothing to obstruct the view of it from the rear of the White House or the east end of the Treasury Building; and there is nothing between it and the Potomac River.—Scientific American.

To Messrs. W. May, F. G. Willis, R. S. Lamm, E. N. Morrison and others: Gentlemen—I noticed in the last issue of the HERALD a call upon me, signed by quite a number of my good Democratic friends of Ohio county, to become a candidate for the office of Common wealth's Attorney in the 4th Judicial District.

Your favorable expression concerning me contained therein is highly appreciated by me. Your call is altogether unexpected to me and the election for said office is too far distant in the future for me at this time to determine what to do in the matter; however, I return to you one and all my heartfelt thanks for your friendly interest in me thus expressed. Very sincerely yours,
H. B. KINSOLVING.
